Course Curriculum & Modules

Government Financial Transparency and Open Budget Management Training Course

Introduction

Government Financial Transparency and Open Budget Management Training Course is designed to strengthen institutional capacity in public financial management, fiscal transparency, budget accountability, and open government practices. The course equips participants with practical knowledge and strategic tools for improving budget formulation, public expenditure reporting, fiscal disclosure, and citizen participation in government financial processes. It explores international standards, digital financial reporting systems, open budget data, transparency frameworks, and evidence-based decision-making to promote responsible resource allocation and effective public sector governance.

Participants will examine global best practices in open budgeting, public procurement transparency, fiscal risk disclosure, and performance-based budget monitoring. Through practical exercises and international case studies, the course explores how governments can leverage digital technologies, participatory budgeting, and public accountability mechanisms to improve financial oversight. It also addresses transparency in Public-Private Partnerships (PPPs), public investment management, and government expenditure, enabling institutions to build public trust, reduce corruption risks, enhance service delivery, and achieve sustainable development outcomes.
