Islamic Banking, Islamic Finance Law and Shariah Governance Training Course

Introduction

Islamic Banking, Islamic Finance Law and Shariah Governance Training Course is designed to equip participants with advanced knowledge and practical competencies in Islamic banking operations, Shariah-compliant financial products, Islamic finance principles, regulatory compliance, and Shariah governance frameworks. As the global Islamic finance industry continues to expand, financial institutions, regulators, investors, and policymakers require professionals who understand the legal, ethical, and operational foundations of Islamic financial systems. This course explores the fundamental principles of Shariah law, Fiqh al-Muamalat, prohibition of Riba (interest), Gharar (excessive uncertainty), and Maysir (gambling), alongside the structures and applications of Islamic banking products such as Murabaha, Mudarabah, Musharakah, Ijarah, Salam, Istisna, and Sukuk. Participants will gain insights into international Islamic finance standards, Islamic Financial Services Board (IFSB) guidelines, AAOIFI standards, financial risk management, Islamic capital markets, and emerging developments in digital Islamic banking, fintech innovation, ethical finance, and sustainable Islamic investment.

The programme further examines the legal and institutional mechanisms that ensure effective Shariah governance, regulatory oversight, accountability, transparency, and compliance assurance within Islamic financial institutions. Participants will explore the responsibilities of Shariah Supervisory Boards, internal Shariah audit functions, Shariah review processes, product approval mechanisms, and regulatory authorities in maintaining the integrity of Islamic financial transactions. Special attention is given to Islamic finance contracts, dispute resolution, corporate governance, risk-sharing models, Islamic insurance (Takaful), Sukuk regulation, cross-border Islamic financial transactions, and financial crime prevention. Through practical case studies, regulatory analysis, institutional simulations, and real-world banking scenarios, participants will develop the expertise required to design, evaluate, regulate, and manage Shariah-compliant financial services. The course is suitable for professionals seeking to strengthen institutional governance, enhance regulatory compliance, improve Islamic banking performance, and support the sustainable growth of the global Islamic finance ecosystem.
