Advanced Restorative Justice Facilitation Training Course

Introduction

In today's rapidly evolving criminal justice landscape, restorative justice has emerged as a transformative approach focused on healing, accountability, and community reintegration. Advanced Restorative Justice Facilitation Training Course is designed to empower professionals with the skills and tools needed to lead impactful restorative processes that address harm, rebuild trust, and create sustainable resolutions. The program integrates evidence-based practices, trauma-informed care, and culturally responsive facilitation techniques, making it ideal for practitioners seeking to deepen their impact across judicial, educational, and community settings.

Through immersive training, participants will explore restorative circles, victim-offender dialogues, and community conferencing, with an emphasis on inclusivity, safety, and healing-centered engagement. This course is tailored for experienced facilitators, social workers, judicial personnel, and educators, and integrates case studies, role-playing exercises, and live simulations to ensure the real-world application of theoretical knowledge. By the end of the course, learners will be equipped to lead complex restorative processes that prioritize equity, reconciliation, and sustainable peacebuilding.
