Course Curriculum & Modules

Gender and Sports Training Course

Introduction

Gender and Sports Training Course is designed to explore the critical intersection of gender, equality, and sports performance in both professional and community settings. This course emphasizes inclusive practices, gender equity, empowerment, and diversity in sports, providing participants with the knowledge and skills to challenge systemic barriers, promote equal opportunities, and foster safe, inclusive, and high-performing sports environments. Participants will gain insight into policy frameworks, gender-sensitive coaching, leadership development, and advocacy strategies that are essential for transforming sports culture globally.

Through interactive workshops, real-world case studies, and experiential learning, this course equips sports professionals, coaches, administrators, and policymakers with tools to implement gender-responsive programs. Participants will develop strategies to address discrimination, bias, and inequality, ensuring that sports become a platform for social change, empowerment, and representation. By linking theory with practice, the course promotes sustainable change, ethical leadership, and community engagement in sports organizations.
