Gender-Responsive Urban Design Training Course

Introduction

Gender-responsive urban design is an essential approach to creating inclusive, safe, accessible, resilient, and equitable cities that respond to the diverse needs of women, men, girls, boys, older persons, persons with disabilities, and other urban communities. Gender-Responsive Urban Design Training Course provides practical knowledge and strategic tools for integrating gender equality, social inclusion, universal accessibility, participatory planning, and human-centered design into urban development. Participants will explore gender-sensitive urban planning, public space design, mobility, housing, infrastructure, safety, climate resilience, digital technologies, and community engagement while examining how urban environments can either reduce or reinforce social inequalities. The course incorporates global best practices, evidence-based planning approaches, gender-disaggregated data, inclusive design principles, and sustainable urban development frameworks.

The training further develops participants' capacity to design, implement, monitor, and evaluate gender-responsive urban interventions across neighborhoods, cities, and metropolitan regions. Emphasis is placed on practical assessment techniques, stakeholder participation, inclusive transport systems, safe public spaces, affordable housing, lighting, sanitation, climate adaptation, and equitable access to urban services. Participants will examine international case studies and develop strategies for mainstreaming gender considerations into urban policies, master plans, infrastructure projects, and community development initiatives. The course is designed to support professionals in delivering socially inclusive and sustainable urban outcomes while strengthening institutional capacity, accountability, community participation, and measurable gender equality impacts.

Course Objectives

By the end of the course, participants will be able to:

- Apply gender-responsive urban planning and inclusive design principles.
- Conduct gender-sensitive urban needs and spatial assessments.
- Integrate gender equality into urban development policies and strategies.
- Apply universal accessibility and human-centered design approaches.
- Design safer and more inclusive public spaces.
- Develop gender-responsive transport and mobility solutions.
- Use gender-disaggregated data for evidence-based planning.
- Strengthen participatory planning and community engagement.
- Integrate gender considerations into climate-resilient urban development.
- Evaluate gender impacts of urban infrastructure investments.
- Develop inclusive housing, sanitation, lighting, and public-service strategies.
- Establish gender-responsive monitoring, evaluation, and impact indicators.
- Promote inclusive governance and sustainable urban transformation.

Organizational Benefits

- Improved gender mainstreaming across urban development programs.
- Stronger inclusive planning and infrastructure investment decisions.
- Enhanced safety and accessibility in public spaces.
- Better community participation and stakeholder engagement.
- Improved use of gender-disaggregated urban data.
- Stronger compliance with equality and inclusion frameworks.
- More equitable access to transport and essential services.
- Enhanced climate resilience and social sustainability.
- Improved monitoring of social and gender outcomes.
- Stronger institutional capacity for inclusive urban development.

Target Audiences

- Urban planners and city development professionals.
- Architects, landscape architects, and urban designers.
- Municipal and local government officials.

- Transport and mobility specialists.
- Housing and infrastructure development professionals.
- Gender, social inclusion, and community development practitioners.
- Development agencies, non-governmental organizations, and international organizations.
- Project managers, consultants, researchers, and policymakers.

Course Duration: 5 days

Course Modules

Module 1: Foundations of Gender-Responsive Urban Design

- Gender equality, social inclusion, and urban development concepts.
- Gender-responsive planning principles and frameworks.
- Understanding diverse urban experiences and spatial inequalities.
- Intersectionality, universal design, and accessibility.
- Gender mainstreaming throughout the urban project cycle.
