Geographical Indications, Traditional Knowledge and Cultural Heritage Protection Training Course

Introduction

Geographical Indications, Traditional Knowledge and Cultural Heritage Protection Training Course is designed to equip participants with advanced knowledge and practical skills for protecting, managing, commercialising and enforcing intellectual property rights associated with geographical indications (GIs), traditional knowledge (TK) and cultural heritage. Participants will examine the role of intellectual property law, international treaties, community rights, collective ownership, benefit-sharing mechanisms and cultural heritage governance in safeguarding traditional assets against misappropriation, biopiracy, counterfeiting and unauthorised commercial exploitation. Particular emphasis is placed on the TRIPS Agreement, WIPO frameworks, the Convention on Biological Diversity, the Nagoya Protocol and relevant UNESCO conventions.

Participants will gain insights into GI registration, certification and quality-control systems, traditional knowledge databases, defensive protection strategies, access and benefit-sharing agreements, digital heritage documentation and cross-border enforcement. Through practical exercises, comparative legal analysis, institutional case studies and simulated disputes, participants will develop the capacity to design effective protection strategies that balance intellectual property rights, indigenous peoples' rights, cultural identity, sustainable development and commercial innovation. The course also addresses emerging challenges involving artificial intelligence, digital reproduction of cultural expressions, traditional knowledge databases, genetic resources and international trade. By the end of the programme, participants will be better equipped to support indigenous communities, protect cultural identity, promote heritage-based enterprises and strengthen intellectual property governance.

Course Duration

5 Days

Course Objectives

By the end of this training course, participants will be able to:

- Understand international and national legal frameworks governing geographical indications, traditional knowledge and cultural heritage protection.
- Interpret the TRIPS Agreement, WIPO treaties and UNESCO conventions relevant to intellectual property and heritage rights.
