Healthy Urban Systems Training Course

Introduction

Urbanization and population growth are shaping the future of cities worldwide, presenting both challenges and opportunities for creating sustainable, resilient, and health-focused urban environments. Healthy Urban Systems Training Course is designed to equip urban planners, public health professionals, policymakers, and community leaders with the knowledge, strategies, and tools to address complex urban health challenges. By integrating environmental planning, social equity, infrastructure development, and innovative health solutions, participants will gain actionable insights to enhance the quality of life in urban settings.

This course emphasizes evidence-based approaches, the use of digital and data-driven tools for urban health monitoring, and the design

Course Objectives

1. Understand the principles of sustainable urban health systems.
2. Analyze urban population health trends using data-driven approaches.
3. Apply environmental and social determinants to urban planning strategies.
4. Integrate public health frameworks into city infrastructure planning.
5. Utilize smart city technologies to enhance urban well-being.
6. Develop policies for equitable access to health services.
7. Implement strategies for climate-resilient urban environments.
8. Strengthen community engagement in urban health initiatives.
9. Evaluate urban sanitation and water management systems.
10. Assess transportation and mobility impacts on urban health.
11. Apply GIS and spatial analytics to monitor urban health trends.
12. Design multi-sectoral interventions to improve population health.
13. Examine global best practices in healthy urban development.
