Informal Settlement Housing Strategies Training Course

Introduction

Informal settlements are a major urban development, housing, infrastructure, and social inclusion challenge, requiring integrated strategies that address affordable housing, land tenure, basic services, climate resilience, public health, and community participation. Informal Settlement Housing Strategies Training Course provides practical and strategic knowledge on informal settlement upgrading, affordable housing delivery, participatory urban planning, settlement regularization, housing finance, infrastructure development, and inclusive urban regeneration. Participants will explore evidence-based approaches for transforming vulnerable settlements while protecting livelihoods, improving living conditions, and supporting sustainable urban growth.

The course examines innovative housing strategies, land and property rights, community-led upgrading, slum prevention, resettlement safeguards, public-private partnerships, housing policy, and sustainable infrastructure solutions. Through international case studies and applied exercises, participants will develop practical frameworks for designing inclusive housing interventions that align with Sustainable Development Goals, particularly SDG 11, climate adaptation priorities, and contemporary urban development policies. The training emphasizes scalable solutions that can be adapted to rapidly growing cities across Africa, Asia, Latin America, and other emerging urban regions.

Course Objectives

By the end of the course, participants will be able to:

- Analyze informal settlement growth, housing deficits, and urbanization trends using current planning frameworks.
- Develop inclusive informal settlement upgrading and affordable housing strategies.
- Apply participatory urban planning and community-led development approaches.
- Assess land tenure, property rights, land regularization, and displacement risks.
- Design sustainable housing and basic infrastructure improvement programs.
- Apply climate-resilient and disaster-risk-sensitive housing solutions.
- Evaluate housing finance, subsidies, and innovative affordable housing models.
- Integrate gender, social inclusion, accessibility, and livelihood considerations into housing programs.
- Develop effective settlement redevelopment and relocation frameworks.
- Apply geographic information systems and spatial data to informal settlement planning.
- Strengthen stakeholder engagement, governance, and institutional coordination.
- Evaluate public-private partnerships and other housing delivery mechanisms.
- Develop monitoring, evaluation, and impact measurement frameworks for housing interventions.
