Liveable Cities Planning Training Course

Introduction

Liveable Cities Planning Training Course provides a comprehensive, practical, and future-focused framework for designing inclusive, sustainable, resilient, and people-centred urban environments. The course explores strategic urban planning, smart mobility, affordable housing, green infrastructure, climate resilience, public spaces, urban regeneration, environmental sustainability, and digital transformation. Participants will develop advanced competencies in liveability assessment, integrated land-use planning, urban design, infrastructure coordination, community engagement, and evidence-based decision-making for rapidly growing cities.

Through practical exercises, international benchmarks, and global case studies, participants will examine how cities can improve quality of life while strengthening economic competitiveness, environmental performance, social inclusion, and climate resilience. The training connects sustainable development principles with practical city-planning tools, enabling professionals to develop implementable strategies for compact, connected, safe, healthy, accessible, and economically vibrant urban communities.

Course Objectives

By the end of the course, participants will be able to:

- Apply advanced principles of liveable cities planning and sustainable urban development.
- Evaluate urban liveability using contemporary indicators and assessment frameworks.
- Develop integrated land-use and spatial development strategies.
- Apply smart mobility and transit-oriented development approaches.
- Design climate-resilient and environmentally sustainable urban systems.
- Integrate affordable housing and inclusive neighbourhood planning.
- Improve public spaces, urban safety, accessibility, and community wellbeing.
- Apply green infrastructure and nature-based solutions.
- Use GIS, urban data, and digital planning technologies for decision-making.
- Strengthen participatory and community-centred urban planning.
- Develop urban regeneration and place-making strategies.
- Integrate sustainable economic development into city planning.
- Formulate actionable liveable-city implementation and monitoring strategies.

Organizational Benefits

- Improved strategic urban planning and development outcomes.
- Stronger climate resilience and environmental performance.
- More efficient land-use and infrastructure investment.
- Enhanced urban mobility and accessibility.
- Better integration of affordable housing strategies.
- Improved public-space quality and community wellbeing.
- Stronger stakeholder and community engagement.
- Increased capacity for data-driven planning.
- More effective urban regeneration programmes.
- Alignment with sustainable development and smart-city objectives.

Target Audiences

- Urban and regional planners
- City and municipal authorities
- Architects and urban designers
- Civil and infrastructure engineers
- Transport and mobility professionals
