Course Curriculum & Modules

Local Government Urban Planning Training Course

Introduction

Local Government Urban Planning Training Course provides comprehensive, practical, and strategic knowledge for professionals responsible for urban growth management, spatial planning, land-use regulation, infrastructure development, sustainable cities, and community development. The course focuses on modern urban planning frameworks, integrated spatial development, development control, municipal governance, climate-resilient planning, smart-city approaches, environmental sustainability, and evidence-based decision-making. Participants will develop practical capabilities for managing rapid urbanization, improving public services, coordinating infrastructure investment, and creating inclusive, resilient, and economically productive urban areas.

The course also examines contemporary approaches to participatory planning, urban regeneration, affordable housing, transport-oriented development, disaster-risk reduction, environmental management, and digital urban planning. Participants will explore international practices and global case studies while learning how local governments can strengthen institutional coordination, stakeholder engagement, regulatory compliance, and sustainable financing. The course incorporates Public-Private Partnership approaches where appropriate to support infrastructure and urban development objectives while maintaining effective public governance, accountability, and community interests.

Course Objectives

By the end of the course, participants will be able to:

- Apply modern urban planning principles to local government development.
- Develop integrated land-use and spatial development plans.
- Strengthen urban growth management and development control.
- Apply Geographic Information Systems and data-driven planning techniques.
- Design climate-resilient and environmentally sustainable urban strategies.
- Improve municipal infrastructure and service planning.
- Apply participatory and inclusive community planning approaches.
- Strengthen urban governance, regulatory, and institutional coordination.
- Develop strategies for affordable housing and urban regeneration.
- Integrate sustainable transport and mobility planning.
- Apply smart-city technologies to municipal planning.
- Evaluate Public-Private Partnership opportunities for urban infrastructure.
