Mental Health in the Criminal Justice System Training Course

Introduction

In today’s justice landscape, the intersection of mental health and criminal justice has emerged as one of the most urgent and complex issues. Mental Health in the Criminal Justice System Training Course is designed to provide justice professionals with essential knowledge, practical tools, and innovative strategies to better understand, identify, and respond to individuals with mental health challenges within the justice system. It is imperative that law enforcement officers, correctional staff, legal professionals, and mental health practitioners gain an informed perspective to facilitate more compassionate and evidence-based interventions.

This training explores trending mental health concerns such as trauma-informed care, dual diagnosis, de-escalation techniques, mental health courts, and rehabilitative alternatives to incarceration. With an emphasis on real-world case studies and hands-on learning, this program offers a robust curriculum aligned with global best practices, public safety priorities, and the ethical treatment of justice-involved individuals with mental illness.

Course Objectives

- Define key concepts in mental illness and criminal justice intersections.
- Examine trauma-informed care in correctional and policing settings.
- Identify signs and symptoms of major mental health disorders.
- Explore co-occurring substance abuse and mental health disorders (dual diagnosis).
- Analyze effective de-escalation techniques in law enforcement.

- Understand the role and impact of mental health courts.
- Improve communication strategies with individuals experiencing a mental health crisis.
- Apply legal standards related to competency, insanity, and civil commitment.
- Evaluate culturally competent approaches in mental health interventions.
- Design effective reentry planning for mentally ill offenders.
- Integrate community-based treatment and diversion programs.
- Promote officer wellness and mental health resilience.
