National M&E Systems (NMES) Design Training Course

Introduction

National M&E Systems (NMES) Design Training Course is an advanced, practice-oriented program that equips policymakers, program managers, and M&E practitioners with the essential skills to design, implement, and optimize robust national M&E frameworks. This course emphasizes the integration of data-driven decision-making, digital M&E solutions, and performance monitoring to enhance accountability, transparency, and evidence-based policy formulation at national and sectoral levels. Participants will gain hands-on experience in system design, data quality assurance, results frameworks, and indicator development, ensuring their M&E systems effectively support sustainable development goals (SDGs) and national strategic priorities.

Through interactive sessions, practical case studies, and applied exercises, the course explores innovative methodologies, institutional M&E integration, and multi-stakeholder engagement to foster resilient and scalable monitoring and evaluation mechanisms. Participants will develop actionable skills in data governance, digital M&E platforms, reporting automation, and impact measurement, preparing them to lead M&E initiatives that inform national policies, enhance resource allocation, and improve program outcomes. By the end of the course, participants will possess the capacity to design holistic, adaptive, and performance-driven national M&E systems aligned with global best practices and emerging trends.

Course Duration

5 days
