Participatory Settlement Planning Training Course

Introduction

Participatory Settlement Planning is a strategic approach to inclusive urban development, community-led planning, spatial transformation, and sustainable settlement management that places residents, local institutions, planners, development practitioners, and other stakeholders at the center of decision-making. Participatory Settlement Planning Training Course provides practical knowledge and tools for participatory urban planning, informal settlement upgrading, community engagement, spatial analysis, land-use planning, housing development, infrastructure prioritization, climate resilience, social inclusion, and sustainable settlement transformation. Participants will explore how participatory approaches can improve planning outcomes, strengthen community ownership, reduce spatial inequality, and support evidence-based settlement development.

The course integrates contemporary planning methodologies, stakeholder engagement techniques, participatory mapping, community needs assessment, settlement profiling, development control, infrastructure planning, tenure considerations, environmental management, and monitoring frameworks. It also examines international experiences and global case studies to demonstrate how governments, municipalities, communities, civil society organizations, private-sector actors, and development partners can collaborate in delivering inclusive and resilient settlements. Participants will develop practical competencies for designing participatory settlement plans that respond to local priorities while aligning with sustainable development, climate action, and inclusive urbanization objectives.

Course Objectives

By the end of the course, participants will be able to:

- Apply participatory settlement planning principles to inclusive urban development.
- Develop community-centered settlement planning frameworks.
- Conduct participatory settlement profiling and needs assessments.
- Apply stakeholder mapping and multi-stakeholder engagement strategies.
- Use participatory mapping and spatial planning techniques.
- Integrate affordable housing and infrastructure priorities into settlement plans.
- Address informal settlement upgrading and tenure-related challenges.
- Incorporate climate resilience and disaster-risk reduction into settlement planning.
- Promote gender-responsive, socially inclusive, and accessible planning.
- Apply data-driven approaches to settlement planning and decision-making.
- Design community consultation, feedback, and conflict-resolution mechanisms.
- Develop implementation, monitoring, and evaluation frameworks.
- Strengthen sustainable, resilient, and community-owned settlement development outcomes.
