Course Curriculum & Modules

Revenue Mobilisation in Low-Income Countries Training Course

Introduction

Revenue mobilisation plays a crucial role in supporting sustainable development, economic resilience, and improved social service delivery in low-income countries. Many governments face challenges such as narrow tax bases, high informality, limited administrative capacity, weak enforcement systems, and heavy reliance on external financing. Revenue Mobilisation in Low-Income Countries Training Course equips participants with comprehensive frameworks, skills, and policy instruments for enhancing domestic revenue mobilisation (DRM) while maintaining equity, efficiency, and taxpayer confidence. The programme integrates global best practices, institutional reform approaches, and modern revenue administration tools necessary for transforming tax systems into sustainable engines of national development.

Participants will explore practical approaches for broadening the tax base, improving compliance, strengthening fiscal governance, modernising tax administration, leveraging digital transformation, and implementing progressive policy reforms aligned with economic realities. Emphasis is placed on identifying country-specific constraints, designing feasible solutions, fostering stakeholder cooperation, and ensuring balanced revenue strategies that promote growth, fairness, and long-term fiscal sustainability.

Objectives:

- Understand key principles of domestic revenue mobilisation.

- Analyse revenue challenges facing low-income countries.
- Explore taxation policy options for broadening the tax base.
- Strengthen institutional capacity and administrative efficiency.
- Apply progressive and equitable tax policy design.
- Integrate digital transformation for revenue systems.
- Improve taxpayer compliance and service delivery.
- Examine strategies for managing informal sector taxation.
- Apply risk-based enforcement and audit frameworks.
- Enhance inter-agency, regional, and international cooperation.
- Evaluate public financial management linkages.
- Review global best practices and comparative models.
- Develop national revenue mobilisation action plans.

Organizational Benefits:

- Enhanced revenue generation and fiscal resilience
- Strengthened institutional and administrative systems
- Reduced tax leakage, evasion, and avoidance
- Improved service delivery and taxpayer trust
- Efficient use of data and digital tax systems
- Increased compliance and voluntary willingness to pay
- Better policy design and implementation capacity
- Improved alignment with development priorities
- Reduced dependency on external borrowing
- Enhanced transparency and governance credibility

Target Audience:

- Tax authority officials and policy makers
- Revenue administration managers
- Public financial management officers
- Fiscal planners and economic analysts
- Ministry of finance officials
- International development practitioners
- Advisors, consultants, and researchers
- Digital tax transformation specialists
