Course Curriculum & Modules

Tax Avoidance vs Tax Evasion: Legal & Ethical Perspectives Training Course

Introduction

Understanding the distinctions between tax avoidance and tax evasion is critical for ensuring legal compliance, ethical business conduct, and responsible tax planning. Tax Avoidance vs Tax Evasion: Legal & Ethical Perspectives Training Course equips participants with the knowledge and analytical ability to differentiate between legitimate tax planning strategies and unlawful tax behavior that attracts penalties, legal consequences, and reputational damage. The course explores domestic and international tax laws, compliance standards, legal frameworks, anti-abuse rules, and ethical considerations in corporate and personal tax planning decisions.

Participants will examine how tax authorities view various avoidance schemes, aggressive planning arrangements, and evasion practices through practical case studies, regulatory analysis, and professional codes of ethics. The course integrates theoretical perspectives with real-world scenarios, enabling participants to identify risks, design compliant tax strategies, and promote responsible tax governance within their organizations.

Objectives:

1. Define and distinguish between tax avoidance and tax evasion.
2. Understand the legal frameworks governing tax planning activities.
3. Analyze ethical principles applied in tax decision-making.

4. Examine anti-avoidance rules and enforcement mechanisms.
5. Evaluate international tax avoidance and evasion practices.
6. Identify common tax evasion schemes and red flags.
7. Interpret penalties and enforcement actions by tax authorities.
8. Apply professional codes of conduct to tax planning.
9. Assess corporate governance responsibilities regarding tax behavior.
10. Integrate ethical reasoning into tax planning processes.
11. Examine the societal impact of abusive tax behavior.
