Course Curriculum & Modules

Taxation in Transitional & Fragile Economies Trainingcourse

Introduction

Transitional and fragile economies face unique taxation challenges that require innovative and adaptive fiscal strategies. Understanding the dynamics of tax policy, administration, and compliance within such volatile environments is crucial for ensuring sustainable revenue generation and economic stability. Taxation in Transitional & Fragile Economies Training course emphasizes practical approaches to strengthening tax systems, addressing revenue gaps, and mitigating fiscal risks in economies undergoing structural transformation or recovering from crises. Participants will gain insights into the latest trends in digital taxation, compliance enforcement, and risk-based audit strategies, all tailored to fragile economic contexts.

The training explores the interplay between public perception, taxpayer behavior, and policy effectiveness, highlighting how taxation influences socio-economic development. By integrating global best practices, case studies, and real-world examples, the course equips revenue authorities, policymakers, and finance professionals with the tools to improve compliance, reduce tax evasion, and enhance institutional performance. Participants will develop competencies in revenue forecasting, taxpayer engagement, and policy design, ensuring that tax systems contribute to equitable growth and stability in transitional economies.

Course Objectives

- Analyze taxation challenges in transitional and fragile economies using data-driven approaches.
- Examine fiscal policy design for revenue mobilization and economic recovery.
- Understand risk-based audit techniques to improve compliance effectiveness.
- Apply digital tools for tax administration, including e-filing and e-invoicing.
- Evaluate strategies for reducing the informal economy and tax evasion.
- Enhance taxpayer engagement and public perception management.
- Integrate international tax norms and cross-border compliance frameworks.
- Develop revenue forecasting models for fragile economic environments.
- Assess sub-national taxation and local government revenue systems.
- Implement performance measurement frameworks for tax authorities.
- Analyze case studies on policy interventions and their socio-economic impact.
