Valuing Ecosystem Services Training Course

Introduction

Valuing ecosystem services has become an essential tool in environmental economics, sustainable development, and biodiversity conservation. Valuing Ecosystem Services Training Course is designed to equip participants with the knowledge and practical skills required to understand, assess, and apply the value of ecosystem services in policy-making, natural resource management, and investment decisions. Participants will explore economic valuation techniques, policy integration methods, and case studies demonstrating the importance of ecosystems in achieving climate resilience, sustainable agriculture, and environmental protection.
