We have 8 different course category that is offered here in Datastat research Centre:

ICT Courses

- Common ICT tools that are in use today include social media analytics tools, mobile data collection systems, data visualization and mapping software, among others.
- You will learn various strategies and building skills to help you better collect, analyze, manage, and visualize data by means of diverse technology tools.

Business Courses

- To build the capacity of Development professionals who are actively engaged in businesses management
- These courses designed to give insights for increasing the level of entrepreneurship in communities at local and national levels.

Research and Data Analysis

- For both governments and civil society to have a need for information on health programs and trends and the impact of policies and interventions.

- The courses emphasize the need for designing information required for analysis and interpretation of data collected for policymaking.
- The course is job-oriented and the training approach is interactive. It provides the participants with the possibility to learn from expert facilitators as well as from each other.

Agriculture Courses

- Sustaining agricultural production through improved soil management is critical to the issue of food security and poverty alleviation in developing countries owing to the escalating population growth, intensified cropping, shrinking agricultural land and widespread land degradation.
- These courses aim to enhance ability in commercial production planning, management of vegetables, tropical fruits, flowers and ornamental plants and to focus on crops produced in order to make it available commercially, particularly with those which have high market potential in participants' home countries.

Development Courses

- Development training is a mixture of skills workshops and lecture formats that are aimed at equipping one with crucial theory and practical skills.
- The skills workshop will equip the students with practical training that is essential in the development of tools and techniques.

Project Management Courses

- Training on Project Proposal and Report Writing is an important concept in the project management arena. This is because without the skills the project managers cannot be in a position to request for grants from the funders/donors of a project.
- It is thus paramount for the project managers and other stakeholders to train on this course to be better placed when managing projects

Health courses category

- These courses are designed for middle- to senior-level managers working in public health from national, provincial government or international agencies and non-governmental organizations, who are responsible for health programmes in communicable and non-communicable diseases, their various administrative aspects and donor communications for the implementation of health programmes.

GIS Courses

- The increasing flexibility of GIS technologies means that they can be used in almost every field imaginable and by people from all walks of life.
- GIS is particularly beneficial to those working in e-government, e-business, and e-science fields.
- Thus, this course is most suitable for non-GIS users and experts, Geographers, IT experts, Cartographers, Geoscientist, surveyors, Planners, software engineers, Database administrators, system administrators, and M&E experts.
